

Wolters Kluwer makes Monkeypox content free to clinicians worldwide

16 August 2022 | News

Rigorously vetted content from UpToDate and Ovid equips clinicians with the latest medical evidence to inform decision-making

Wolters Kluwer has made monkeypox content on UpToDate free and created a monkeypox resource page that includes links to relevant medical journal research articles in Ovid. Wolters Kluwer also has experts available to comment on the monkeypox outbreak.

Stacey Caywood, CEO, Wolters Kluwer, Health, said, "In order to help clinicians and researchers worldwide respond to the monkeypox outbreak, we are providing them with the latest evidence-based information that ultimately helps them to provide the best care to their patients."

Dr Matt Weissenbach is an epidemiologist and infection preventionist with more than a decade of experience. Dr Weissenbach can comment on the spread and symptoms of monkeypox.